Information Item

AAC – 8      Institute to Promote Athlete Health & Wellness Name Change (Storrs)

Background Information

The Institute to Promote Athlete Health & Wellness has been renamed The Center for Athlete Well-Being. The new name better reflects the mission to improve the health and well-being of all athletes through the translation of prevention research to effective programs, policies, and practices. The term “well-being” is also more in line with current public health education nomenclature than the term “wellness”.
